

FLOURISH Skin & Laser

Is it time to clear up some of those brown spots? Sun spots, age spots, liver spots, freckles . . . . call them what you may, (The medical term is solar lentigos) but they're all caused from sun damage. We have many options to treat pigmentation, but one of the most common treatments that we have great success with is our Limelight Photofacial laser. This laser targets surface pigmentation and sun damage, which temporarily turns dark like "coffee grounds" then flakes off. This can make great improvements to even out the tone of your skin and lightening those unwanted spots in just a few treatments. This laser can also be done on all areas of the body with sun damage, such as your chest, arms, back and hands!

You may have some big events coming up this summer like weddings, graduations, or family reunions. You obviously want to look your best and not be afraid to bare your shoulders or arms. So now is the time to clear up that sun damage with Limelight! Take advantage of our special this month and get 3 Limelight treatments for the price of 2!

May is National Skin Cancer Awareness Month

Skin cancer is possible at all ages in all areas of the world. Even though we live up here in the “rainy Northwest” we still have a higher percentage of skin cancer than in the more southern areas where they actually get more sun. Why is that? I’ll tell you why! Because people here don’t wear their sunscreen! No, I’m not talking about when you go to the beach or happen to remember to put it on before your son’s baseball game. I mean wearing it everyday of the year. Sunscreen is the MOST important item in your skin care routine. Just because we have more over-cast days than sunny days here in Cowlitz County, doesn’t mean we have less UV rays. UV rays pass through the clouds and windows, even in your car. Plus UV rays cause sun damage, like brown spots and textured lines and wrinkles. That’s not a good look.

Fortunately we have much better sunscreen available these days than even 10 years ago. In fact, BareMinerals has come out with a new Mineral Veil that is an SPF25! That way you can keep re-applying your sunscreen throughout the day, like you are suppose to do. BareMinerals foundation is already an SPF15, but who wants to keep putting on more and more foundation? The “caked-on face” look is not in anymore, girls. So now the colorless light finishing powder we all love, will protect you skin at the same time!

Need a better sunscreen for your face? We have lots of options and they’re all 15% off for the month of May! Don’t let me catch you without sunscreen on this year!
